907 Luttrell Street, 1900

907 Luttrell Street appeared in Barber's Art In Architecture of 1901 as Design No. 557.

The catalog description says it has been built "very many times," though researchers have found only this one example. The records of Barber's firm were destroyed, so many of their houses can be identified only by matching a built example to a design in one of the catalogs. So keep an eye out! - you may just happen upon another example of this house.
